DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The house is located at the bottom or the south end of Robinson Neck Road, Taylor's Island. The house as it stands now is composed of a central section three bays long, one and one-half storys tall, of frame construction built on brick piers. On each end of the central section is a large brick chimney piercing the 'A' roof. On each side of the building is a large three-window wide shed dormer. On each gable is a one room addition which is approximately the same height as the main part of the house. The entire building appears to be second or third quarter 19th century. It is covered with asphalt siding and shingles.

Fenestration on each of the two wings which flank the building consists of, a door, and a window, also a dormer on the second floor. On the back of one wing there is a single dormer, the other does not have one. All of the windows have 6/6 sash, no shutters, and no period work on the outside. All appears to date from the 20th century on the outside even the doors.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (Include Personages, Dates, Events, Etc.)

The house is of interest for this survey of old and historic buildings in Dorchester County because it appears on the 1877 map and it represents a growth pattern which is uncommon for such a vernacular structure.
